

I am writing concerning a letter from the K-Love radio station. It states that the FCC is considering letting LPFM to take priority over the current FM translator service, because most stations airing on the translator service are of little value. I find this very untrue. Firstly, K-Love is an inspiration to listen to. It uplifts my soul and my children's souls. It helps to lighten the load when a day has been hard. Secondly it has a constant positive influence on all the people it reaches; greatly affecting the communities in which we live. If everyone would listen to even just a little bit of the programming I feel there would be a huge difference in the Nation today! If K-Love were to be displaced off of the air I believe that regionally & nationally we would just be taking steps forward; toward a nation that believes in nothing and feels that who cares if something is good for you. I believe the radio station K-Love is essential in my life. It not only keeps things upbeat, but is the only station on my dial that I KNOW I never have to worry about changing quickly because my kids are in the van. They even sing along with K-Love. It helps me to demonstrate to them that I not only go through the motions of church on Sunday; I also continue to strive through the week to keep those Sunday lessons going. I know I'm not the only parent who believes that this radio station is very essential. It just bothers me that the FCC would consider enabling others to take away one of the few things so positive left on the airwaves.

Sincerely,
